

14. Some athletes (el atleta) become used to receiving and spending (gastar) lots of money. _____

15. Richard is not disposed to giving us anything today. He is not in the mood (de humor). _____

con

Verbs that require the preposition con sometimes clearly have the meaning "with," as in asociarse con, which means "to associate with." At other times we must unscramble the real meaning of the verb to understand more clearly why it takes con.

For example, the verb casarse con, which means "to marry," has as its root the noun la casa (house). The verb casarse con actually means "to set up a house for oneself with (someone)." Another commonly used verb, encontrarse con (to run into, meet up with), means literally, "to find oneself with."

aburrirse con (n.)	to be or get bored with (someone, something) acabar con (n.)	to finish with/off, get rid of (something, someone) amenazar con (n., v.)	to threaten with (something, doing something) asociarse con (n.)	to associate with, team up with (someone) asustarse con (n.)	to be afraid of, be frightened by (someone, something) bastar con (n., v.)	(3rd-person) to be sufficient, have enough of (something, doing something) casarse con (n.)	to marry (someone) comerciar con (n.)	to trade in/with (a person, a business) conformarse con (n., v.)	conform to, resign oneself to, make do (something, doing something) contar con (n.)	to count on (someone, something) contentarse con (n.)	to content oneself with (something) dar con (n.)	to come upon (someone, something) disfrutar con (n.)	to enjoy (someone, something) divertirse con (n.)	to enjoy, have fun/a good time with (someone, something) encontrarse con (n.)	to meet up with, run into (someone) enfadarse con (n.)	to get angry at/with (someone, something) enojarse con (n.)	to get angry at/with (someone, something) equivocarse con (n.)	to make a mistake about, be mistaken about (someone, something) espantarse con (n.)	to become afraid of (someone, something) juntarse con (n.)	to associate with, join (forces) with (someone) limpiar con (n.)	to clean (something) with (something) llenar con (n.)	to fill (something) with (something) meterse con (n.)	to bother, pick a fight with (someone, something) preocuparse con (n.)	to worry about (someone, something) recrearse con (n.)	to amuse oneself with (something) romper con (n.)	to break up with, break off relations with (someone) salir con (n.)	to go out with, date (someone) soñar con (n., v.)	to dream of/about (someone, something, doing something) tratar(se) con (n.)	to associate with, have dealings with (someone, something) tropezarse con (n.)	to bump into (something, someone), stumble over (something)